A friend of you is asking for advice about which printer to buy.

Look for the tech specs here:

<http://www.epson.co.uk/Printers-and-All-In-Ones/Inkjet/Epson-Stylus-DX7000F-all-in-one-printer/Tech-Specs>

Write him an email comparing the two printers.

What's up friend,

I hope this email finds you well. You asked for my advice on which printer to buy, so I have compared the tech specs of the Samsung ML-1865 and the Epson Stylus DX7000F for you and there we go:

- The Samsung ML-1865 is a monochrome laser printer that can print up to 18 pages per minute. It has a duty cycle of up to 10,000 pages per month and a resolution of 1200 x 1200 dpi. It has a manual paper tray that can hold up to 150 sheets and a manual bypass tray that can hold up to 1 sheet. It also has a manual duplex printing feature. It is compatible with Windows and Mac operating systems and has a USB 2.0 interface.
- The Epson Stylus DX7000F is an all-in-one printer that can print, scan, copy, and fax. It can print up to 32 pages per minute for black and white documents and 31 pages per minute for color documents. It has a duty cycle of up to 3,000 pages per month and a resolution of 5760 x 1440 dpi. It has an automatic document feeder that can hold up to 30 sheets and an automatic paper tray that can hold up to 100 sheets. It also has automatic duplex printing. It is compatible with Windows and Mac operating systems and has a USB 2.0 and a WiFi interface.

Both printers have their own strengths and weaknesses. The Samsung ML-1865 is a faster printer but has a lower monthly duty cycle and fewer features. The Epson Stylus DX7000F is a slower printer but has a higher monthly duty cycle, more features, and a higher resolution. You will need to decide which features are most important to you and which printer fits your needs best.

I hope this comparison helps you make a decision. Let me know if you have any more questions.

Take care.

Manuel.
